

What is Music Therapy?

Music therapy is the use of music interventions to accomplish individualized, non-musical goals. Music therapists are individuals who have received a Bachelor's degree or higher in music therapy and have passed their board-certification exam and been approved for licensure. (American Music Therapy Association) In music therapy sessions, our clients work hard on their goals in a supportive environment where they are motivated by instrument play, vocalization and musical games and activities.

Performance Opportunities:

At Therabeat Inc. our clients are given the opportunity to perform in two recitals per year. At each recital, our clients have the chance to showcase their talents and abilities and share what they have been working on in music therapy with friends and family.

Pricing:

Consultation

A consultation is $25.00. A consultation is a 30-minute music therapy session in which you can observe and learn what a music therapy session would look like for your child.

Initial Evaluation

Music therapists assess the strengths and needs of each client based on an evaluation that is taken at the beginning of treatment. You will receive a report from your music therapist including their goals for your child after the evaluation is completed.
